Neapolitan typical products

- Garofalo Pasta mista: This is a mixture of many formats of pasta. It is particularly used for beans soups. In Neapolitan dialect it is also called "mmesca francesca", from "Mesca" (mixture) and "francesca" (a probable ironic reference to the French gastronomic mélanges, at the time of their domination of Naples).

- Caffè Kimbo: Caffè Kimbo is probably one of the most popular coffee brands in Italy, thanks to the good combination of quality and price. The company is located in Naples and has expanded throughout Italy and beyond. Today Kimbo exports successfully in many countries.

- Fresella: The "Fresella" is a slice of bread which has been put in the oven twice and for this reason it is toasted. It is the main ingredient of the so called "caponata", a dish made with this kind of bread, oil, tomatoes, basil and salt. You can also add anchovies, hard boiled eggs and green olives.

1000 g/ 2,50

- Lard and pepper taralli: The Neapolitan “tarallo” is a typical product of Naples prepared with flour, lard, yeast, almonds, salt and black pepper. It is a delicious snack with a special smell of almond.
